

Fault Tolerance and Recovery

Different failures produce different availability behavior, but accepted work remains traceable.

Every injected failure is evaluated through the same recovery workflow

Reliability claim: every request that was durably accepted can be reconciled after recovery; availability during the outage depends on the failed dependency.